If you are interested in traveling long term here are some resources that I have found useful

- <http://www.sovereignman.com/> - escaping from single sovereign nation to have multiple flags - practical advice on money, passports, doing business in other countries. Free blog and newsletter, paid in depth actionable info, monthly teleconferences and local resources rolodex if you become member
- <http://www.internationalman.com/> - forum and newsletter for permanent travelers. Some good reports if you register. Similar content to sovereignman at less cost. I use both to cover more bases.
- <http://www.qwealthreport.com/> - blog and newsletter for internationalizing yourself and your finances. Free website and paid membership.
- <http://www.tynan.com/> - nomadic life style tips and ebook. Good tips on saving plane costs and traveling ultra light, his annual gear reports are fabulous!
- <http://www.locationindependent.com/> - how to get started traveling and working abroad, good on dealing with emotional objections, first steps, family issues. blog and (paid) ebook.
- <http://www.vagabonding.net/> - practical tips on traveling freely and light. blog and book
- <http://www.fourhourworkweek.com/> - 4 Hour Work Week - how to spend less time working and more time doing what you love. Tips on mini-retirements, outsourcing, starting your muse. Blog and book. The second edition has lots of on the ground tips from readers.
- <http://freelanceswitch.com/start/a-comprehensive-guide-to-starting-your-freelance-career/> - a free good step-by-step guide to starting your own freelance business (in English and French)
- <http://100startup.com/> - how to start up your (remote) business for $100 or less, 6 free PDF guides under the Resources section
- The travel.stackexchange.com/ - travel stack exchange is good for researching and asking travel questions. Free site. Quick response to questions.

Vagabonding quote from Lavinia Spalding

"Don't think about it too much. Don't make pro and con lists. Pro and con lists are nothing but trouble. If you think about it too much, you'll just end up staying home. ... My family and friends often say to me, 'I'm living vicariously through you.' Don't ever live vicariously. This is YOUR life. Live."
